Meeks Presents His Program

There are two principle criteria upon which a candidate for the office of President of the Associated Students should be judged. The first is his past record. Is he experienced in student affairs and student government? Has he shown that he is qualified to assume the responsibilities of President of the A. S. B.? I sincerely believe that my candidate, KEN MEEKS, has a record that shows he has all the qualifications necessary to be a good President. He has been active in many organizations on this campus, and in working in them has displayed the qualities essential to a good president—intelligent leadership, willingness to work, etc. At the present time he holds the office of Sergeant-at-Arms of the Student Body, and while acting in that capacity, has served well and actively on the Student Council the past year. He has been a member of The Herodoteans for three years, holding the office of vice-president last fall and assumed the responsibilities of president this quarter.

In the two years that he has been a member of Intercollegiate Knights, he has been one of the most active members and this year held the office of treasurer of that organization. This is also his third year in the "W" Club.

The second criterion upon which a candidate for president must be judged is the policies that he advocates and the program he expects to follow if elected. My candidate, Ken Meeks, advocates a revision of the social calendar that will provide activities in which more students can participate and enjoy. If elected, he will work to provide for regular student body assemblies in which talent from our own campus will be used. He also favors sponsoring activities such as a winter ski picnic, theater parties and other similar affairs, as well as the regular dances and parties that will provide worth-while entertainment for more students than are now benefitting from the present program.

My candidate stresses the importance of a non-partisan student government on the college campus. I quote his own words, "It is extremely important that a student government be run on a basis of absolute equality, with no favoritism being shown to any one or several organizations, classes, or cliques." My candidate wants every student on the campus to feel that he is a part of the government of this student body, and urges everyone to express his ideas and criticisms at any time, through both the council and the Campus Crier. If my candidate is elected he will be ready and willing to listen to suggestions from anyone at any time.

I quote again, "The officers of the Associated Student and the members of the Student Council are representatives of the students themselves. Their first responsibility is to carry out the wishes of the student body." My candidate urges you to use the Campus Crier—it is your paper, tell your student council members what you expect and would like to see them do—they are your representatives; or if you wish, attend meetings of the council and make your suggestions and criticisms and tell your ideas to them—it is your council.

Having a background of experience in student affairs, possessing a likable personality, industry, and leadership, and advocating an intelligent and progressive platform, I give you Ken Meeks as the man for President of the Associated Students for next year. He asks you to consider his record, consider his qualifications, consider his experience, compare him with the other candidates. Go to the polls next Tuesday prepared to vote for the best man. I believe that you can vote for no better man, make no better choice than my candidate—KEN MEEKS.

Lassoie Gives His Ideas

I, JOE LASOIE, wish to announce to all Campus Crier readers my candidacy for the office of Student Body President. I would like to take this opportunity to name a few things about myself that I believe are fit qualifications for this office. A prominent member of our student body confided in me prior to the nominations expressing the opinion that I should be groomed for the Presidency by attempting to win some other student body office for next year. I feel though, that I have faced the test of capability sufficiently to run for the presidency this year. I have been on the Honor Roll of this institution every quarter since I first enrolled here. Last year I was chosen the most popular male Honor student in the College. I have been a member of the football squad for the past two years. This fall I was unanimously elected President of the Sophomore Class. My other extra-curricular activities consist of being a member of the Herodoteans, the A Cappella Choir, the "W" Club and the College Men's Quartette. If you believe that these qualifications are sufficient for a prospective president of the student body, please give me your vote.

I have been confronted the past week as to what my program is. I do not intend to make any rash "If I am elected President" promises. As a student of Central Washington College the past two years I have seen a decided advancement in our school. We have not only beautified our campus by the addition of new buildings but we are rapidly developing into a unified cooperating student body. There has been a remarkable increase in interest in all our school activities. This is as it should be. Our student functions should be supported wholeheartedly by all our members if we expect to attain any creditable amount of success. We must progress; a static institution has no future. My main endeavor if I am elected student body president will be an attempt to develop such interests as these. I will strive to bind our social body into a cooperating social group. We all want next year to be a successful one, and I feel that this is the only way it can be made so. If the students will work hand in hand with the officers that they elect to lead them, I feel sure that next year will be one that none of us will ever forget.

Thank you,
JOE LASOIE

Hopkins Nails Planks in Platform

When considering a candidate for the office of Student Body President it is very necessary to consider the qualifications and past experience of those nominated before picking your man. BILL HOPKINS was the Sophomore representative to the Student Council. This year he is the Vice-President of the Student Body, a member of the Crimson "W" Club, has worked on social and student committees, and is a three-year letterman in football.

Bill is in favor of a more active student body through student forums, where problems, activities, and the wishes of the entire student body will be discussed. With the enthusiasm and cooperation of the entire student body a program can be worked out which will give every student an active participation in school life. During the past years there has been much discontent because the school has not had an active program in which every student may find pleasure. This is not altogether the fault of the President or Student Council, but is partially the fault of the student body. Through these student body meetings, open forums with members of the faculty and students, through petitions, student council and the Campus Crier, enough power can be had to make a program desirable to the majority.

Each year a social commissioner from each of the classes is elected to work with the A. S. B. Social Commissioner. This past year the commission has not functioned but next year, through careful selection, an active commission to help carry the burden of administering the activity program can be formed. Through this plan the students will have more to say as to the Winter Sports Picnic, more theater parties instead of increased dances, and some program for the open week-ends.

The Off-Campus Club has been very active in school program but they have had no support or representation to the Student Council. BILL favors an Off-Campus representative in the Student Council to present any problems or desires which they may have. They should also have some part in the social commission to represent them in such matters. He will give them his fullest support.

"WILLIS GORHAM HOPKINS
He's the man the people choose."

As a green Freshman he became well known as President of the "Shoe-Shiners Club" and an active member in the "Peanut Pushers Association."

His qualifications for the office of President of the Associated Student Body of the Central Washington College of Education are so numerous that it would be impossible to enumerate them all, but we will list a few.

His first publicity came at the age of 1 year and 3 months when he was elected by a group of famous judges as the "Healthiest Baby in Ypsilanti." From this time on he has been the recipient of many honors. He was chosen by the citizens (three of them) of Podunk-By-The-Sea as honorary mayor. He has filled this post successfully for several years, never having found out where this Podunk-By-The-Sea is located.

While spending an extended vacation in Moon Valley, his ability was rumored around and after a hard fight at the election polls, he was elected the fourth man on the "bucket brigade" of this famous resort. During his term

THE TRADE LAST

The U. S. Office of Education in the current issue of its publication, "School Life," reviews two types of colleges that are exerting a significant influence on modern day higher education. "Cooperative Colleges" is the title of a piece and "Self Help Colleges" is the name of an article.

A small group of colleges, largely situated in the South, require all students, regardless of financial ability, to assist in the work of operating the colleges. Kitchens are operated by the students; cleaning is done by them; farms, in many cases, are worked by students; dairies are maintained; and, when work around the college is insufficient to supply jobs for all of the students, laundries, bakeries, ice plants, and other industries are set up.

Social life at the self-help colleges, such as Berea College in Kentucky and Berry College in Georgia, is minimized. The required dress at Berry, for example is overalls for boys and chambray dresses and sunbonnets for girls. For dress occasions the boys have one dark, solid color suit and girls a blue serge dress for winter and a winter and a white dress for summer.

Work takes the place of athletics in these schools, and there are no football games, house parties and dances.

The idea of working and studying at the same time results in fine training, according to those who have studied the operation of these colleges and the students, upon graduation are well equipped to fill positions in the outside world. However, the idea of getting up before daylight to milk cows and then proceeding to classes isn't very tempting.

Flotsam and Jetsam

Have you been the proud possessor of this year's first sunburn? If you haven't, you don't know what you've missed. It's a wonderful feeling—a sunburn—makes one aware of the fact that he certainly moves around a lot. Does your burn usually itch? Have you ever lost your sense of reason, and scratched? It feels exactly like a hot curling iron stuck in the middle of your back—and NOT removed. But your lobster-like appearance is not too much regretted—the first swim of the season—and several good hours of fishing. Back to nature!

I have a music class in school in which various members of the class teach the rest of us as they would teach their music class in a grade school. It's striking to notice how the so-called, pretended, primary pupils all have a fine imagination. You be surprised to listen to the baby talk they employ when they answer their "teachers'" questions. "Now, boys and girls, do you know what a choo-choo is?"

It seems that the cast of "Stage Door" is going to hold a meeting to-night (Monday) to determine whether or not they will come to rehearsals or simply drop the play. It seems that about half the cast comes to rehearsals—and that half consists of people who know their lines and know their stage business. The ones who really NEED the rehearsals never attend them. I don't know whether it's fine school spirit in the negative—or whether no one cares. But as a commentator, I'm for Mr. Lembke. I'd like to know how under the sun any cast thinks it can produce a play without rehearsing!! I don't know whether they think they're first cousins of Lynn and Fontanne or not, but for an amateur group (the members of which know little or nothing about lines or stage business), they seem terrifically temperamental. It's enough to drive a director mad! I give the cast a chance to defend itself. I'd like to hear your side of it. Ahe you horsewhipped? bowed? defeated? bloody? Do you think you're too good for direction or are you merely lazy? Are we going to have a "Stage Door"—or are we going to let Mr. Lembke down—two weeks from opening night?

(This isn't too strong because in this case something has to be done. We are letting down a swell fellow if we give up the play. Let's do something about it.)

The May Prom was quite the success it was built up to be, wasn't it? There was plenty of good advertising, and good work done on decorating. Before I came to C. W. C. E. one of its students told me that the girls over here quite stump him. In the day-time they resemble little brown moths. At night they turn into the butterflies of the school. It did look that way Saturday night. It was a typical spring dance, filmy dresses, tuxes, flannels. Everyone looked very ultra.

(But I had to explode, in the midst of all this finery I happened to glance at the door of one of the anterooms—bold, block letters hit me in the face—EXERCISING ROOM. How apt! Yop should have seen the perspiring faces of some of our most ardent feet-spillers! Exercising room! Excuse me while I make a roaring exit!

Frills and Foibles

Whoops!! The Fashion Editor has her day at last. This is the rare opportunity she's been awaiting all year—the chance to vent her wrath about certain people's choice of covering without treading on too many toes; but watch out you at whom she glares. You'd better wear tin boots or sumpin'.

Now to turn loose!! There are apparently those girls' (and boys, too) in these parts that haven't found out yet that there are showers and bathtubs in the dorms. Or if they do know it, they must have the erroneous idea that these pieces of equipment are to be used not more than twice a month. Well, to set these poor baffled individuals right, allow us to state that there are bathing facilities in all the dorms, and that there is no restriction on the number of times they may be used—a month, a week, or a day. So for the rest of our sakes, won't you please break down and take a bath? Or will we have to resort to sending soap ads?

Speaking of soap and water, reminds us that we saw Mr. _____ of Munson Hall wear the same pair of sox for a week!! Maybe his covers aren't long enough and he wears them to bed at night to keep warm, or perhaps there's some sentimental attachment, but never let it be said that we didn't warn you, _____, when those sox walk right off your feet when you're least expecting it.

One of the Kamola belles, _____, has been seen wearing extremely high-heeled ankle-strap shoes to totter about the campus. She wears them as an accessory to a VERY SHORT and EXCEEDINGLY SNUGGISH suit skirt. Well, we always thought along different lines for campus clothes, but maybe the mode is changing, or sumpin'. Yes, and while were on the subject, _____ (in fact several _____s) have been wearing out their high-heeled white pumps with their newest array of giddy ankle sox. Now, I ask you, girls, is it fittin' and proper?

Mr. Barto went to great lengths one day last quarter to tell his class what he thought of "the wimmin" and their fads. He went on and on to tell how you wouldn't find men falling for every new garb and gadget, but we wonder if Pete has taken a look at _____, _____, and about 40 more of the campus swains during the past week. There has been a deluge of white cotton sweaters with "Central Washington College of Education" (or something) across their manly chests or backs. Personally I wonder whether or not they got them free with a box of corn flakes, but if the boys like them, I suppose we'll have to bear up under the strain. (Maybe they'll shrink or fade!!)

We'll have to take a dig at Sue Lombard yet and then we'll let you rest in peace. There are a couple of girls who were either neglected terribly when Mother Nature handed out the eyebrows or who feel that their own are inadequate. Anyway, _____ and _____ never start the day without carefully penciling each brow from their noses to half way down their cheeks. I wonder if they have any idea of what poor taste they're displaying and how hard it makes them look?

Tri-School Meet Here Saturday

Things You Should Know

From all reports we have finally succeeded in getting a rise out of you, and consequently the Rodeo-field track is going to receive the attention that it needs, some time before the Tri-College meet. I wish to extend the thanks of this column to the person or persons who are making this undertaking possible. Coach George Mabey informed me that the track will be raked and sprinkled, and that he expects to have a fairly well-conditioned track for the big event. Thanks again, all of you.

With the Tri-College track meet just around the corner, we find ourselves face to face with an event which should prove to be one of the most interesting athletic programs of the entire year. This season's Tri-College meet is going to be one of the closest and hardest fought battles ever staged in the history of the Normal-colleges. With Cheney as the favorite, Bellingham and Ellensburg will be at the throat of the Savage constantly. In a probable summary of the coming events, we find all the fields closely matched. The 100-yard dash, the mile-run, the 220-yard dash, and the 440-yard dash, are races that will be so close and hard, that it is practically impossible to pick the possible winners of the events. However, I am picking one winner. Glen Ferris, the lanky Wildcat, should run wild in the field events, so here is the dope. Glen will capture the pole-vault, the discus, should place second in the high-jump and the shot put, and should be the high point man of the day. You can count on Jack East, the speedy hurdler, to bring home a number of points, too. Those of you who enjoy good hard-fought contests, should turn out for the Tri-College, because it is sure to be a thriller.

This week-end will also see the finals in the Tri-College Golf and Tennis matches. Ellensburg has as good a chance as any to win in both events. As far as Cheney goes, the Cats should have very little trouble in eliminating this foe, but on the other hand the Bellingham tennis squad proved that it had what it takes to win, when the Central College net-men lost to them two weeks ago. In Golf, we have been rated as top-heavy favorites to win the title. Our club swingers have proved to be by far the best in the league.

CAPPA AND KERR
2-BALL VICTORS

Last Saturday, under ideal conditions after two postponements, the 2-ball foursome was again launched. Everybody was at the course bright and early and ready to fire. Fabio Cappa and Betty Kerr stole high honors for the day with a cool 93. (That was pretty fair because look who they both had to play with).

Tommy Stephens and Joan Sanders did their mightiest to equal Cappa and Kerr's achievement but had to be content with second place with a 95.

All in all, the competition for honors of the day were very keen. There were five partners who broke 100. But I suppose that the real feature of the day was What-a-man Gould and Marjorie Brown's prodigious efforts to slam that little white ball somewhere but in the rough (and incidentally, river). All in all they hit (or I should say swung at) the ball a grand total of 145 times for low honors and consequently booby prize. Cappa and Kerr of course walked off with a nice looking cup for the school championship honors. Scores of one and all:

1—F. Cappa-Betty Kerr.....	93
2—T. Stephens-J. Sanders.....	95
3—B. Carey-E. Seigel.....	98
4—E. Dickson-E. Schriengalt.....	99
5—F. Schille-M. Webster.....	99
6—G. Correa-E. Murphy.....	100
7—N. McLeod-H. Fairbrook.....	106
8—D. Thompson-B. Pfennig.....	117
9—B. Nelson-Paddy.....	125
10—J. Crimp-M. L. Felzer.....	139
11—K. Gould-M. Brown.....	145

Coach "Nick" and Miss Hebelar teamed up to win over President McConnell and Mrs. Nicholson in a brilliant exhibition match. The winning combination had a very nice 84. The losers were no slouches and bagged a very nice 90 themselves.

Last Tuesday the Wildcat tennis team handed the Seattle College outfit its second defeat at our hands this season, by 5-1. The victory was virtually a clean sweep except for one doubles match. The singles were swept by the Cats and one doubles was called off.

Central College Makes Good
Showing in Portland Invitational

Because of lack of school funds, Coach George Mabey was able to take only part of his track squad to Portland, to do battle with the Oregon schools. Considering the fact that most of the Oregon schools entered full-sized squads in the meet, while Ellensburg had only ten men to depend on, and that our Central College squad came home with third place and two new records, we think that our little band did themselves proud.

Ferris and Hartman
Stand Out

The Ellensburg squad came home with two new Willamette Valley Conference records, due to the efforts of Captain Glen Hartman and Glen Ferris. Hartman set a new record in the 440-yard dash, leading the Oregon schools by a wide margin as he crossed the finish line. Ferris turned on the heat in the pole-vault, and jumped to the new height of 12 feet 3 inches, leading his nearest competitor by 6 inches.

Oregon Proves Strong
In Distance

The Oregon schools proved to be too much for the Central College distance men. A 4:32 mile found Montgomery in fourth place at the finish, a 2:02 found Bowers in fourth place at the finish, and in the 2-mile run Central College did not place. "Little Tex" Woodward, the speedy Ellensburg flash, ran neck and neck with Sweet of Portland U, and tied for first place in the century. All in all our Central College squad is showing more and more power as the season progresses. Don't be too surprised if the home tracksters run off with the coming Tri-College meet, it will be very close at any rate.

Last week Cheney lost a close decision to the University of Idaho's varsity.

LINFIELD WINS TWO
TENNIS MATCHES

Last weekend the Ellensburg Central College net squad dropped two matches to Linfield. On Friday Linfield came from behind to win, 4-3. On Saturday they again drew the game out of the fire by sweeping both doubles. Saturday's score was 5-2. Earlier in the season the Cats lost to Linfield twice, both by a 6-1 score.

Very much improvement has been shown by our netmen and I for one think they are doing all right. However, I do believe that Bellingham will win the Tri-College tennis meet with Central having a fair chance for second honors.

Pauline Johnson for Secretary

The office of Secretary of the A. S. B. Council is the main channel of feminine representation in the affairs of the school. The secretary should be mature and experienced above the average. We need a person who has her feet on the ground and with a personality that can make itself felt. We need a person with past experience in all activities.

Pauline Johnson fills these qualifications. On this campus she has been active in Art Club, is vice-president elect of Kamola, worked on the Campus Crier, has served on several dance committees for the successful Kamola dances. This spring she was elected to Kappa Delta Pi, one of the highest honors given in C. W. C. E.

At W. S. C. which she attended for two years, she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega social sorority, Eurodelphian, national honorary for art, speech, and music, and was elected president of Delta Phi Delta, national fine arts honorary. Pauline was also a member of Spurs, the national women's service honorary.

We give you then, as the choice of the women on the campus, Pauline Johnson, the dynamic red-head, as candidate for Secretary of the ASB.

Lounsberry's 'Seven Social Suggestions'

As May 24, the day of election draws near, I wish to take this opportunity to express myself in relation to my nomination for Social Commissioner. To me the social activities of the school are an integral part of school life. The spirit of the school can be gauged by the social activity in the school and every one is aware of the importance of school spirit to a successfully functioning student body. With this philosophy in mind I am in favor of a full, active and enjoyable social calendar. Not an over indulgence that reflects itself in the scholastic standing of the student but one that reflects itself in the cultural personality of the individual.

At present this school is supposedly behind the other two Teachers' Colleges in social activity and in school spirit. Certainly it lacks the school spirit of last year and I am told it is far below the level of two or three years ago. In order to remedy this situation an active social program is needed to pep up the school spirit and make the school life pleasant.

Thru observation, student "bull sessions" and participation in social activities I have formed what I call my SEVEN SOCIAL SUGGESTIONS which can satisfy the demands of the above philosophy and help to pep up the school spirit. Following are listed the seven social suggestions:

1. Organized and appropriate Frosh week.
2. Renewal of Stunt Night at Homecoming.
3. Renewal of the Annual Winter Sports Picnic.
4. A Social function each week-end.
5. Student Assemblies and Theater Parties.
6. No conflicting dates.
7. 1:30 late leave for formals.

JIM LOUNSBERRY

Candidate for SOCIAL COMMISSIONER

I wish to make known that I am withdrawing my candidacy for Sergeant-at-Arms.

Lund for Vice-President
Parker for Sergeant

BETTER vs. BEST!!

In the coming election, the task of choosing officers is simply a matter of differentiating between those men who would adequately fill the positions, and those men who are qualified to render a superior type of service to you as voters, and to the school as a whole.

For the majority of the positions, there are undoubtedly more capable candidates than you can shake a stick at—if you are in the habit of shaking sticks at candidates—but for the positions of Vice-President and Sergeant-at-Arms, the number of outstanding men are as scarce as "A's" in a methods class. There are, in fact, only two men—one for each position.

For the position of Vice-President, there are two possible candidates. But a process of intelligent reflecting and deducing will enable us to draw the conclusion that only one of these men is qualified to render efficient service. That man, naturally, is Ted Lund. He has an exceptionally pleasing personality, is intelligent, industrious and is a fine cooperative worker. He is in every way fitted to handle the position of Vice-President and to carry on the work of the President should that contingency ever arise.

The position of Sergeant-at-Arms is one that clarifies itself immediately. The prowess of Omar Parker as a "cooler-offer" is too well known to bear repetition, and the fact that he is the logical man for the position is also obvious. So cast your votes for OMAR PARKER for Sergeant-at-Arms, and for TED LUND for the position of Vice-President. You will then be entitled to walk away from the polls wearing the smug look of a man who has picked two winners.

Other Candidates

Vice-President—John Vandenbrink, John Sodya

Secretary—Helen Fairbrook, Ellen Wickersham

Social Commissioner—Jim Smith

Sergeant-at-Arms—Charles Breighthaupt

HEATER, RYAN ARE TWIN MAY QUEENS

"I crown you 'one' of the Queens of the May" were the words of Dr. McConnell as he placed the flower crowns on the heads of Pauline Ryan and Lucille Heater. For the first time in the history of the May Proms, sponsored by the Off-Campus Club, two candidates had an equal number of votes. It is interesting to note that only 267 out of over 500 students cast their votes for preference. The crowning of the two queens, which came during intermission, was a surprise to those attending the dance. Dr. McConnell stated that he was in a dilemma as to which girl should be crowned first. Princesses Evelyn Murphy, Margaret Lawrence, Helen Fairbrook and Ellen Wickersham were in attendance.

Many out of town guests, faculty members and a few alumni were present. Patrons and patronesses were: Dr. and Mrs. R. E. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. George Beck, Miss Rosamond Wentworth, Miss Ernestine Eschbach and Mr. Jack Hanlon.

Using "Underseas" as a motive, the Prom committee created a very aquatic effect. Sea green streamers came together at the center of the ceiling to surround an octopus. The walls were covered with multi-colored swimming fish. A bathosphere belonging to William Beebe was used to make punch in. Punch was served by Nita Fish and Emma Henke. The throne was a pink seashell. "Nep-tunes" were supplied by Keith Gould and his orchestra and played from an old sunken ship, "The Davy Jones." Anchors, ropes, octopus, crabs and all treasure chests made good souvenirs.

ALL INVITED TO THE FROSH FROLIC

You are dancing, guys and gals, to the incomparable music of Keith Gould and his "Washingtonians" here in the gala ballroom (the old gym to you) on the lovely campus of deah old Central Washington, overlooking Eighth street and the heating plant, so help me.

The occasion, as y'all may wonder, is none other than that most gala social whirl of the year known as "the" Freshman Frolic to be held on the twenty-eighth day of May at nine p. m., yow sah, yow sah.

The purpose of this little gathering, other than merely a fun-fest and a collegiate hoe-down, is to prove what the Frosh think of the graduating class as being more than just upper-classmen. In doing so the dance is dedicated to them—and thereby lies a theme—graduation.

You think this announcement is a wee bit late? Well, chum, we've fixed it up for you. You don't have to bother to ask the girl to the dance and vice versa. You see, it's strictly no-date. Admission? Well, there's a slight cover charge of one pencil, with which you will be expected to fill out your programs, which will be given to you at the door.

In spite of the balmy(?) weather the dance will be informal and you all will be expected to wear your shoes. So with that thought we bid you all a fond cheerio, a bit toodle-toodle, a twee-twee and pleasant dreaahms and we'll see you at the frolic!

SNYDER DIRECTS BRAHMS' REQUIEM

For a very large and appreciative audience, the Music Department, under the direction of Mr. Hartley D. Snyder, presented a really thrilling interpretation of Brahms' Requiem in the First Presbyterian Church of Yakima last Sunday evening. The large auditorium was packed, and comments were justly profuse in their expression of appreciation. It was no small task to be responsible for seeing that all of the members of an 80-member chorus as well as over 30 members in the orchestra with their instruments were transported safely to and from Yakima. In addition to the directing of the musical, Mr. Snyder conducted this phase of the program efficiently with the aid of several faculty members and students who offered their assistance. A record for safety and efficiency was set when nothing more than a flat tire on the truck happened to delay the return home. (Oh, yes, and speaking of delays, I am sure that no one will forget waiting for half an hour after the concert with that flaring light in our eyes, waiting for that slow camera man to tell us to "stand still and take off your glasses"). Few but those on the inside realize how many factors besides the actual singing go into the making of such an artistic production.

The first presentation was given in the College Auditorium on the preceding Friday night to a very small but attentive group. One of the finest touches was added by the ushers who by their appropriate evening attire and courteous, dignified manner gave a truly college air to the auditorium. This is the first time in which men ushers have been the "leading men" in such fine array. These men, who were chosen and coached by Hamilton Montgomery, together with the high quality of the performance of participants in the Requiem itself, were responsible for presenting one of the finest productions which our college has witnessed.

Mr. Snyder has been highly commended for his courage and ability in successfully executing this very difficult oratorio. The singing, the accompaniment, the directing, the soloists were superbly done, but nothing was allowed to dominate the great genius and beauty which Brahms himself put into this masterpiece.

"STAGE DOOR" APPROACHES OPENING

In one week "Stage Door," C. W. C. E.'s spring quarter production, will be presented. The play is a modern one and comes at a most opportune time. It will be the final splurge of gaiety for most of the students before settling down to study for the finals. A George S. Kaufman play is not considered one of the best plays in the sense that "Candida" is a good play, but it is one that is fast-moving and very frequently interspersed with smart cracks. And what could be a more perfect send-off than a hilarious comedy of young chorus girls and their problem of job hunting. The success of some of the girls should raise the spirits of the graduating teachers who have not yet found positions.

The play has been in production a little over a month and, considering the size of the cast and the inexperience of the actors, the progress has been surprising. It is seldom that a play with a cast as large as that of "Stage Door" and as inexperienced as this cast is, can work so fast toward completion. The play is now going into its final stages of rehearsal with next week being spent on dress rehearsals. This week the play is being taken apart by scenes and each one is being worked into its final draft. By Sunday, the play will be put together and the continuity worked out. The members of the cast and Mr. Lembke deserves a great deal of praise for the time and work they've put into the play in building up each character, no matter how small.

Living a vicarious life is what each character strives for when his own life fails to provide his desires. However, it is not always an easy matter to transform oneself into an entirely different person. It is the small details which builds up a character and it is the small details which are the hardest to change. Nevertheless, there is a delight in living in another world and this chance is not lost by the people in "Stage Door."

If things don't seem just right now, if you would like to throw everything to the Ellensburg winds, don't fail to see "Stage Door" the 28th. Because seeing a play is the next best thing to living a different life, and who wouldn't like to spend an evening with a group of chorus girls?

Students now in school who plan to graduate in August are asked to apply for graduation before June 2. The application form may be obtained from the office of the Registrar.
